

Steel'n Beats is an Auckland-based steelband performing music on hand built steelpan instruments - the heart of Trinidad & Tobago.

Our music aims to move and connect with our audience, creating a powerful sound that transcends genres.

The 55-gallon oil drums used for our instruments are recycled and fine-tuned to produce intricate melodies and textures.

When played together as part of a steelband ensemble, they emit some of the world's most boisterous and glorious sounds.

Steel'nBeats offers a unique fusion of Caribbean rhythms and modern pop music, creating a vibrant and energetic sound that appeals to a broad audience.

This dynamic blend of tradition and innovation allows listeners to experience the cross-cultural synergy between different musical styles and appreciate the richness of diverse musical traditions on steelpan instruments.

We believe that the steelpan is a powerful musical tool that has the ability to connect people from all walks of life.

We are committed to sharing our passion for this amazing instrument with as many people as possible.
